DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-11 and 14-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Horiguchi et al. (US6370322)

Regarding claims 1 and 15, Horiguchi shows a method for recording a digital data stream on a disk recording medium comprising the steps of:

- a) Dividing the digital data stream into predetermined sized packets in fig.8 (col.7 ll.43-54)
- b) Producing specific information indicating when to send presentation managing information to control the presentation of the digital data in fig. 9A (col.7 ll.62-col. 8 ll.1-6)
- c) Inserting the produced specific information between the packets for the divided stream and recording the packets and specific information on the recording medium
In fig.15

Art Unit: 2613

Regarding claims 2, 3,4,7,8,16-18, Horiguchi shows where step c) from above is inserted if there is a time interval in which audio and video data packets will not be delivered to a presentation apparatus in fig.6

Regarding claims 5, 10 and 19 Horiguchi shows that specific information is transport packet containing information regarding the time to deliver in fig.15 (col.9 ll.15-33)

Regarding claims 6,11 and 14, Horiguchi shows a method for providing presentation managing information comprising:

- a) reproducing a data stream recorded onto a disk medium (13) in fig. 2A
- b) extracting navigation information from the reproduced data stream (17) in fig. 2A (col. 3 ll.49-53)
- c) producing a program managing information packet based on the extracted navigation information (col. 3ll.59- col.4 ll.1-10)
- d) deciding when to send the produced program managing information packet and transmitting the packet at the decided time (col.4 ll.11-16)

Regarding claim 9, Horiguchi shows the specific information is a transport packet whose packet ID is distinguished from the audio and video packets containing null data in figs. 9A and 9B (col.7 ll. 60- col. 8 ll.1-12)

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 12 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Horiguchi et al. (US6370322) in view of Komi et al. (US6477185).

Regarding claims 12 and 13, Horiguchi teaches converting a digital data stream into packets, but what he does not teach and is taught by Komi, is converting the data stream into a packetized elementary stream and inserting the presentation managing information while converting the packetized elementary stream into packets fig.11 b (col.1 ll.55-64). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to convert the data stream into a packetized elementary stream to indicate the time at which the decoded program element is to be presented (col.1 ll.61-64)

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure:
